

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A CAD apparatus includes a determining unit for determining a component order in ascending order of impedance of components for passive components amongst components to be placed on a printed wiring board. The CAD apparatus places each passive component in the determined component order in a vicinity of power pins of non-passive components that are already placed.